CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK— Nov. 1-7th —

"SWING INTO BOOKS"

Forty-six years ago the American Library Association started the celebration of National Book Week for Children. Each year since, more emphasis has been given to this phase of children's education. Each year sees the publications of hundreds of new books all geared to the reading interests of individual children.

For nearly twenty-five years, Appomattox County Library has made an attempt to provide better reading for the young reading public of our schools and community.

The second week of November has traditionally been the time to observe both Children's Book Week and American Education Week but this year they each shall have their own weeks. The theme for Children's Book Week is "SWING INTO BOOKS" . . . following this week, we have the theme for American Education— "Education Pays Dividends" — Books are no substitute for living, but they can add immeasurably to its richness. When life is absorbing books can enhance our sense of its significance. When life is difficult, they can give us momentary release from trouble or a new insight into our problems, or provide rest and refreshment we need. For the year 1964-65, 38 library units have been ordered for the schools of Appomattox County— this represents $2280.00 worth of books. In addition to this amount, local PTA groups are adding supplementary library orders for individual schools.

Sometime during this month, "Swing into one of our libraries and browse among our books— You will find the following high upon the best list of literature:

MARY POPPINS— The unpredictable English nanny is the best seller in two books — P. L. Travers "Mary Poppins and Mary Poppins Comes Back" a combined edition of her first two adventures—Watch the Hollywood production with Julie Andrews starring as the English Nanny.

STORMY: MISTY'S FOAL by Marguerite Henry. A colt is born to one of the most famous and popular ponies in juvenile fiction.

WHERE THE WILD THINGS ARE — by Maurice Sendak. Dream fantasy picture book wherein beaked and faloned monsters are tamed. Caldecott Medal Winner for 1964.

Profiles in Courage: Young Readers Memorial Edition— by John F. Kennedy. The adult version of this abridged volume appeared on the Times best seller list for 138 weeks.

Presidents of the United States— by Carnel Adam Lengyel—Richly illustrated accounts of 35 private lives and public careers.

"My bookcase is a wonder house Where kings and queens and fairies dwell.
Perhaps when I am sound asleep
They stay awake and secrets tell.
Since books are friends I love
the best—
I would not care to stay at all
In ANY house—not even ours—
Without my books around the wall"

County Plants 1,100,000 Seedlings

Landowners To Plant Loblolly For Conservation And Profit

by: Donald G. Drake, Forester Virginia Division of Forestry

The 1964-65 tree planting program will soon be underway. Many Appomattox County landowners have begun to make plans for planting pine seedlings this winter.

In Appomattox County, landowners are fortunate in having a market for hardwood pulpwood. This market allows the owner of a stand of low quality hardwoods to clear-cut these hardwoods and receive some return from this low value land. This can be used in turn to reforest the area with profit producing loblolly pine trees. Also, utilizing the Agricultural Conservation Program, the timberland owner should have very little expense involved per acre of woodlands converted to pine.

Land that has been abandoned, eroded, or over-grazed is considered ideal area that should be planted with pine trees before they grow up with an undesirable cover of hardwood brush.

Some people are hesitant to plant trees. They think that they are not going to live long enough to reap the profits of their effort. An executive of Hampden-Sydney College was asked twenty years ago if he ever expected to live long enough to harvest the trees he planted. He gave this reply, 'No, nor do I expect to live long enough to collect my life insurance.' This man, a few years ago, cut approximately a half of these trees for a pulpwood thinning. Many pine plantations are being thinned for pulpwood at an age of fifteen years or less.

This past year, approximately 1,100,000 loblolly pine seedlings were planted in Appomattox County. Over a half a million were planted by private landowners. This is a good number of seedlings and County residents should be proud of this reforestation effort. It is economy and pride by, as well as interested in tion about the gram, or the neighborlands close M. Smith, Chief of Appomattox ald G. Dunn, Box 336, Farmville.

Indian Pit Is Discovered At "Buffaloe" Dig

Members of the Archeological society of Virginia discovered a "pit" Sunday afternoon at their "dig" on "Buffaloe Plantation," the home of Professor and Mrs. James M. Grainger, Farmville.

Members or the society had been working at "Buffaloe" since early Saturday morning, and until the discovery of the "pit" had unearthed nothing more than a few pottery fragments, a copper thimble, a few pipe stems, and bits of glass and square-headed nails.

Five-foot square plots were dug all over the area in front of the Grainger home. These plots were dug down to where the red clay appeared. If no discoloration appeared in the clay, the plot was abandoned.

Col. Howard A. MacCord, treasurer of the ASV, who supervised the "dig," explained the reason for abandoning the plot if no discoloration appeared in the clay.

"If the earth has been disturbed in any way," MacCord said, "it will show up as a dark spot in the clay. If no discoloration appears, that means there is nothing below this particular plot."

Not Deep

The plots at "Buffaloe" went only about eight inches deep before the clay level was reached. MacCord stated that in some areas the society has to dig several feet before reaching clay.

The discovery of the "pit" proved, according to MacCord, that "Buffaloe" had definitely been used by the Indians for some purpose. It could not be immediately determined whether it had been a hunting camp or a village.

The "pit" was discovered when a perfectly circular area of dark earth appeared in the clay. The area within the circle was excavated one-half at a time. Several pottery fragments, and a large quantity of bone and a large tooth were unearthed from the "pit." The large amount of charcoal found in the pit seemed, according to members of the society, to indicate the pit was used for garbage disposal.

Mrs. Grainger, when reached by telephone recently, said she and Professor Grainger were encouraged by the results of the "dig." She indicated that they would continue to work on their own with excavating various portions of the Grainger land. "We have a red clay hill, and I believe we may be on an old Temple site."

John Gillette Completes Basic

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (FTC) — John J. Gillette, Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gillette, Sr., of Route 4, Appomattox, Va., completed basic training Oct. 2 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-week training included naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical training or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying skilled personnel to man the ships, planes and shore stations of today's Navy.
